GRAFT CAUSE OF FALL OF MAYAS

Earlier and Greater Nation than Aztecs Disintegrated from Oppression.

WERE HIGHLY CIVILIZED

Built Civilization Centuries Before Christ—Plotting Among the Rulers Started Downfall, Says Morley.

Though the Spanish burned their banana fiber records, the lost history of the great Maya empire of Yucatan was placed together yesterday before the Congress of Americanists. The address was given by Sylvanus G. Morley, of the Carnegie Institution of this city, and represented a dozen years of Mr. Morley's life.

This nation, which came to its downfall through graft and civil war only a few years before the coming of the Spanish invaders, was, say specialists, by far the greatest nation of people that lived upon this continent prior to that time—greater than the Aztecs of Mexico or the Incas of Peru. Mr. Morley has found the cause of the civil war and even the names of the princes who caused the strife.

Had Cities and Temples.

These people, said the speaker, lived first in Southern Mexico and Central America. For fifteen centuries they preserved their culture intact. Their history is left only in stone monuments, and it is only by deciphering the inscriptions on those and piecing together the scraps of their history as read to the ignorant early Spanish and by them recorded, that their story has been gotten together.

"They were a highly organized community," declared Mr. Morley, "with great cities and magnificent temples.
Their history sort of burst on us about the year 400 A. D. or cycle 8 in the Maya chronology. Their calendar alone shows a development of a high type of civilization. They must have been building up such a civilization for centuries, but the only way we have of accounting why we have no relics to speak of before that is that their monuments were destroyed. They must have been in wood and therefore decayed."

About 500 A. D. the speaker said, the nation seemed to decline and decay.
People gradually migrated and colonized farther north. What adverse influence caused them to leave the south and go into Yucatan proper is unknown. But after about 1000 years devoted to conquering the dryer climate, the same Maya people, with the same language and methods of writing, appear to have awakened to greater achievements in art and science than before.

Three great cities—Chichen Itza, Mayapan, and Uxmal—shared equally in the government of the country.

Revolts Followed Oppression.

Chac Xib Chac, ruler of Chichen Itza, plotted against the prince ruling Mayapan, and after about 100 years resulted. This later prince called in some of the inferior but more warlike Toltec people of the north and Chichen Itza was beaten. Then followed a readjustment of power, and Mayapan exercised an overlordship over Chichen Itza. They employed the Toltec mercenaries more and more, and the ruler and the royal family, known as the Cocom family, became more tyrannical.

From 1200 to 1400 revolts on the part of the people were frequent. All this time the third city, Uxmal, had kept out of the quarrel. Her prince, of the Tutul Xiu family, were widely known for their wisdom and justice.
The oppressed Chichen Itza people appealed to Uxmal, and finally this province yielded and joined in the civil war. Mayapan was destroyed, but the war was so ruthless that all were decimated, and then pestilence carried off probably hundreds of thousands.
As a result, all the great cities were abandoned, and the Itza people migrated southward. In 1517 the Spaniards landed, and though the weaker people fought them for fourteen years they were subjugated.
The Americanists decided to hold the next congress in Rio de Janeiro in 1915.

WILL PROTECT MARKSMEN.

"Safety First" Policy to Be Adopted by High School Authorities.

Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of public schools, and Lieut. E.
Z. Steever, U. S. A., yesterday took up the question of carrying out the new schedule of increased activities of the high school cadets and decided that one of the first steps taken will be to make sure the being no longer used in the schools for rifle practice.
The plans include the bringing back by trolley to the marksmen the targets at which shots have been fired, instead of the boys going to the front of the range to inspect the results of their work as heretofore.
Soon after the reopening of classes, committees will be presented to the officers.

Freshmen Hold Dance.

The freshman class of the College of Pharmacy of George Washington University held a Christmas dance Wednesday night at the Terrace Inn. "Steve" Hughes was Santa Claus, and the merry-makers gathered around a huge Christmas tree for presents. Ralph Dean was chairman of the dance committee, assisted by Laurence Taylor and Kacey Lee. The chaerons were Dr. and Mrs. Bradbury, Mrs.
Taylor and Mrs. Dean.

CAMPAIN FOR THIRTY OPENED

American Institute of Banking Launches Nation-wide Saving Movement.

NECESSITY APPARENT

Wholesale Destruction of Capital in Europe Places Country in Position of Creditor.

Save! Save! Save!

Everywhere you turn today big, startling signs on the backs of "sandwich" men will admonish you to start the new year with a saving account. The parade of "sandwich" men is the first step in a nation-wide campaign being launched by the American Institute of Banking to make the American people thrifty.

It is to be a mammoth educational campaign, lasting throughout the year and reaching from Maine to Florida and from New York to San Francisco. In this city it will be directed by the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Banking, a committee of twenty-one, with Frank B. Mason, of the National Savings and Trust Company, as chairman, has been named.

Bankers of national prominence have realized that the wholesale destruction of capital in Europe will place the United States in the position of a creditor, no longer able to finance its established industries and support new ones on borrowed money. They point out that under such conditions, being aggravated as the war goes on, it has become a necessity for the American people to save systematically.

Incidentally, 1916 is the centennial of the birth of the savings bank in the United States. Each of the twenty-one men on the local committee will be trained in public speaking, and will address civic bodies, fraternal societies, in fact, all classes of organizations on the advantages of saving money.

Will Establish Savings Clubs.

The committee has not decided on an official slogan for the campaign in Washington but "Every Little Bit Added to Will Make a Big Difference" and "A Little Bit More" will be sung at all "thrifty" meetings or street rallies.

A feature of the campaign in Washington will be the establishment of saving clubs among school children. Children, Devereux, said last night that these clubs would not be established until later in the year. Manufacturers and others who employ large numbers will be asked to support the campaign by spreading the message of "thrifty" among their employees.

The bankers will have the co-operation of the country, of the Y. M. C. A., the National Americanization Committee, which will work among the immigrants, and the National Civic Federation, which will work among the industrial classes.

MOTOR GOSSIP

By "ST" GROOMAN

Edkins Reed, Southeastern representative of the Pennsylvania Rubber Company, who has been spending the holidays in Washington, leaves tomorrow night for Richmond.

Harry C. Stein, of the automobile department of Barber & Ross, left last night for New York.
Ford and the middle of next week.

J. J. Haas, manager of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, will henceforth call on his customers in a Mitchell, having purchased one a few days ago from Miller Brothers, the local representatives.

"The Paige Company will stand pat for the coming year in spite of all exceptional offers. The Paige Motor Car is material market and unmoved by the design," says Richard Silby, the local representative of the company.

T. E. Sullivan is a great believer in Jovo as an antidote for tire punctures.
If it will do all he claims, he will have won his way into the hearts of many motorists.

Owing to lack of sufficient showroom space, the Comb Motor Company has been compelled to build a balcony to be used as an office.

B. F. Zimmerman, who handles the Stewart-Warner products and a service station, is meeting with considerable success in the Stewart air starter for Ford cars. The device weighs but forty pounds.

Fred Harvey-cutter, who has been in Philadelphia for the past several days in interest of the Kelly-Springfield tire, returned home yesterday.

A Seattle, Wash., owner of a Cadillac Eight has driven his car 22,000 miles in the last eleven months. This is an average of 2,000 miles a month, or better than 80 miles per day. The ordinary motor car owner in a city will drive an average of probably 5,000 miles per year.

This Cadillac is the first of the eight-cylinder type delivered to a Seattle buyer in spite of the fact that the distance it has covered is nearly equal to the earth's circumference. It has never been overhauled and the owner has just completed a tour of 1,400 miles in California.

B. Z. Zimmerman, who handles the Stewart products and maintains a service station for them at 1317 Fourteenth street, is installing quite a number of self-sealing self-inflators for Ford. The device is attached to the front of motor and is worked by compressed air, weighing but forty pounds.

A happy and prosperous New Year!
